Puerto Rico's southwest is a region filled with art, historic towns, and life by the beach. In this tour we will explore the cities of Yauco, San German y Cabo Rojo.

We kick it off with Puerto Rican history as we cross from the northern side of the island to the southwest region. First stop will be the city of Yauco, where a display of spectacular murals, called Yaucromatic, set the tone. This expression of art has pushed tourism and the economy of the whole region.

Next stop is San German, The City of Founder of Towns<sup>o</sup>, the second oldest city in Puerto Rico. It is a colonial beautiful town in the hills of Santa Marta, the place from where 22 municipalities in the south and west of the island originated. It has the oldest churches and structures making it a fascinating experience for those that love architecture.

After lunch, we will head to the coastal beach city of Cabo Rojo and enjoy a nice walk through the fishing village of El Poblado de Boquerón. This is one of the island's most popular weekend destinations for locals. It's filled with restaurants, bars, and local stores.
